TERMS OF THE DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY. SIX MONTHS

ONE MONTH

The Cause of the War.

To prevent another rebellion, the cause the present one must be removed-that is slavery. That is no just cause-for slavery has always existed in this country. The reason why it is connected with this rebellion is, because there is a party in the free States that would not cease to agitate it, until they could rest in the belief that slavery was in the process of final extinction. Now. abolish this party, and the cause of this rebellion will be removed. It was the election of a Republican President that made the opportunity for this rebellion. It was the cause of it, or the condition that made the rebellion possible. Abolish the possibility of a Republican President, and the cause of the rebellion will be abol-

After the insurrection in Pennsylvania, it might have been suggested that distilled spirits should be abolished, that the cause of the insurrection might not again exist. After the rebellion in New England, which did not just break out into armed resistance, but was on the verge of it, it might have been suggested to abolish commerce or war, as they were the cause of the treasonable conduct of the Yan

After the nullification in South Carolina, i might have been suggested to abolish all tariffs, as they were the cause of the rebellion of that State. Better cut the matter short, and abolish the felly and wickedness of markind, and thus end all bad governments, and the possibility of rebellion against a good one. Abolish the selfish ambition of men and parties, and there will be no more rebellions.

We have learned by experience that men will not want pretexts for rebellion. Internal taxes, commerce, war and tariffs have lead to nearly open rebellions in this country. In no nstance, however, were these the cause of the rebellion. They were only the subjects that the ambition of politicians made use of to provoke resistance to the Government. Slavery is only a more potent subject, used by the demagogues of both sections; but it would not disturb the country, if the States would all mind their own business-obey the Constitution-and let others alone.

There is a better security, or there will be when this rebellion is crushed out, against any attempt of any part of these States setting up for independence of the others, than there ever was before, or than any theory could give. The experiment has been tried under the most favorable circumstances, and failedfailed, after terrible cost of treasure, blood and

That is the lesson men understand; that everybody understands; that will not be forgotten, at least for generations. States will see that they must make the best of the Union, for they can't get out of it. It has been tried, and the end is near by-a most disastrous fail ure. That is the sort of logic that prevents rebellions.

There is no glory in such results. Men will not resort to them from apprehensions of evil; they can apprehend in the remedy they resort to.

always be a security against rebellion. No.hing will secure a government but its wisdom and moderation; but with these we may have this continent, had burst, from its own inhera long respite from the calamities of the past

FREEDOM.-It has been thought that we (the people of the United States) enjoyed a great deal of freedom; indeed, that we had the full measure of it-the right to think what we pleased, say what we pleased, and do what we pleased within the limits of very liberal laws. That, however, is not the luxury of freedom which men have relished in all ages of the world. This luxury of freedom is not only the right of a man to do as he pleases, but to make other people do as he pleases; or the right to persecute and punish them if they don't. That is the branch of freedom men are prone to relish in this world of ours. The in the path of freedom. No party in this country ever made such an achievement. The old Federalists undertook to punish men conduct, but they failed to accomplish much. The Republicans of 'his day do better at it.

SIGNIFICANT .- The question, says the Washington Chronicle, of enforcing the President's emancipation proclamation is rapidly approaching that point at which it will become the test of popular loyalty. Test of loyalty! Think of that, ye who are going to correct the first negro regiment in the Department of things by the suffrages of a free people.

The York Times says of the discussions out which party will attain power when this war closes, that it will be the one that is 'most thoroughly national in spirit." This we are all prepared to admit ought to be the one. It would be absurd to expect any party not thoroughly national to govern any country long, much less one with as many and diversified interests as our own. It is the most decided objection we have to the party which the Times defends and which is now in power. We assert that the country was divided because it was not believed to be thoroughly national but thoroughly sectional. When this wrong is corrected, when this party is turned out of power, and such a one as the Times suggests is placed in charge of the Government, then we may hope for that restoration and not before it. The difference between the two parties which are now struggling for supremacy is in their nationality. The one believes it consists in a blind adherence to the party in power, in all things, and sustaining it, right or wrong. The other believes in that nationality which represents the entire interests of the whole people, by which no section is sacrificed to the prejudices of The one takes the Government for the nation; the other the people, who constitute the governing power for the nation. It certainly is a grave question as to w shall govern in the succeeding four years. a time of peace it requires great ability, after this tremendous war, it will require very bighest administrative ability and wi statesmanship. There will be jarring a almost irreconcilable difficulties to adju There will be grave errors to correct; crim to punish with justice, not passion or pre dice, and pardons to be extended. If ever calm, wise and merciful interposition of divine spirit was needed to inspire a peop how to select their rulers and how to gui those rulers in their duty, it will be dur the next decade in this country. In war, bri force can sway a nation. It is in calcing the tumultuous waves after 3—Jno W Longyear. Ad 6—Ang C Baldwin. 3—Jno W Longyear. Ad 6—Jno F Driggs.... calming the tumultuous waves after the war is over that the highest statesmanship is called forth. While the War of Independence lasted, the struggling States were held together; but after the war was over, it required all the wisdom of a Washing ton, a Hamilton, a Jefferson, and a Madison to cement the contending interests It was in the post-revolutionary affairs that statesmanship was most needed and found. For example, the fluancial affairs in the Revolutionary War were as badly managed as those of the rebels. They were adjusted afterwards by Alexander Hamilton. To effect what is before us after the armed rebellion is crushed requires statesmanshipa true nationality. The Republican party has not this; no sectional party can have it. I's base is too narrow to build upon it the magnificent structure of a powerful nation, united in interest, equal in rights, and just in its laws. Such is not the national party which must govern this country, if we are ever to have a durable peace.

"Mr. Bingham, Treasurer of the State, residing at Jefferson City, where General Loan was stationed last fall at the time of the November election, meeting General Loan a few days after the election, congratulated him on his election, and said he was glad to see an Emancipationist elected from the St. Jo-seph district. General Lean replied that he had never committed himself to the policy of emincipation—that he confessed a fondness for the institution of slavery. The Southern Financial System-Robt.

Toombs' Letter in Full. WASHINGTON, GA., August 12, 1863. o the Editor of the Constitutionalist:
The Confederate Government have com nitted two radical errors in the management of our finances, which produced our present alamitous condition by the operation of laws of currency as fixed, certain and immutable as the laws which govern the planetary system. At the beginning of this struggle we had large national resources and unequaled elements of public credit; we borrowed gold at par for bonds; wealth laid its treasures at our feet, and poverty itself claimed it as a privilege to augment our resources with its inflict on us in this world. Therefore, whatprivilege to augment our resources with its mite. Folly has mainly contributed to the drying up of this living fountain of public supply. The first great error was in attempting to carry on a great and expensive war, solely on credit without taxation. This is the first attempt of the kind ever made by a civilized people; the result of the experithe first attempt of the kind ever made by a civilized people; the result of the experiment will hardly invite its repetition. During the first year of its existence, the present Congress neither levied nor collected a single cent of taxes, and postponed the collection of those levied for the second year to a period fatally too late to support our currency. The second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first, and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted from the first and converted the collection of the second error naturally resulted theight from the excessive issue of Treasury notes, we can only correct this evil by stopping instantly any farther issue under any pretense whatever, and by reducing as rapidly as possible our present outstanding issues. It requires large, comprehensive, and efficient measures for their continual reduction, until they shall rise in value and approximately any farther issue of Treasury notes, we can only correct this evil by stopping instantly any farther issue of Treasury notes, we can only correct this evil by stopping instantly any farther issue of Treasury notes, we can only correct this evil by stopping instantly any farther issue of Treasury notes. currency. The second error naturally resulted from the first, and consummated the destruction of public credit. This error was the use of the public credit almost exclusively in the form of currency. The natural result of this policy was plain, inevitable, overwhelming. It is a well-jettled and sound principle in currency. The tax in which has a sufficient version which has a sufficient version frauds and prejudices. The tax in kind urrency. The second error naturally resulted from the first, and consummated the destruc-ion of public credit.. This error was the use rency, that a nation which has a sufficient quantity of circulating medium properly to answer the wants of its trade and commerce, auswer the wants of its trade and commerce, can not add to the value of that currency by any further addition to its quantity. In the ordinary state of trade, any excess of the proper quantity exhibits itself in the form of the exportation of bullion; any deficiency, in importation. When from any cause whatever the operation of this law is prevented, any retainly in our present condition the war can not be carried on and the currency sustained by taxation alone; we must resort to loans. It is all to may be a necessary evil whenever there is a great deficiency in the circulating medium. The execution of such a law is necessarily difficult, irritating, wasterful, and productive of much fraud. But certainly in our present condition the war can not be carried on and the currency sustained commodities which it circulates. It is also true that if this redundant currency exists in the form of paper money not convertible into coin at the will of the holder, the measure of this depreciation is the difference between the standard or mint price of bullion and the market price when paid in this currency.

Tested by these plain and sound principles, the solution of the causes of our present financial troubles is easy. When this revolution commenced, our currency was in excess of the Government lately in funding its treasury notes. Treasury notes are in great excess; the holders are anxiously hunting far a sate and profitable investment for them. The Government is perfectly able to supply that want; heretofore it has not done so. We must issue new bonds with principal and interest payable in gold and silver, or their equivalent, and adopt measures to make such payment certain. This can be done by mortgaging a specific portion of the revenue to the new bond-holders, adequate to the payment of both principal and interest as each may fall note which was put into circulation added its nominal value to this excess. Each succeeding issue enlarged it, and increased the depreciation of the whole mass. This depreciation soon began to manifest itself in the rise of commodities; yet the Government has unwisely continued daily, by a forced circulation, to add to this excess, increase the depreciation and enhance the price of all the commodition and enhance the price of all the commodities. tion, and enhance the price of all the commodities which it is compelled to purchase, and is thus exhausting the national recourses in the ratio of geometrical progression. This ruia ous policy would have long since run its course, but for the fact that law, intimidation, and above all, the ardent, sincere houset but mistaken patriotism of the cere, honest, but mistaken patriotism of the people have been invoked to uphold it. he principle being radically wrong, no human power could uphold it long, and in spite of all these powerful proofs, our national cur-reacy is depreciated more than one thousand per cent. below gold and filver, four hundred per cent. below suspended bank-notes, and

It is true that gold and silver do rise and It is true that gold and sliver do rise and fall in value alike, but in a much less degree, than other commodities, and it is mainly by this reason that they have been adopted by mankind as the standards of value, and, however they may rise or fall, that in no degree affects their value as a test of the deprecation of information or component they containly still reaffects their value as a test of the deprecation of inferior currencies; they certainly still remain, if not the infallible, yet the most accurate measure of such depreciation which the wisdom of the world has as yet been able to discover. This is no pleasant picture for us to behold, yet this is better than the still more electric one which a continuance in the paths gloomy one which a continuance in the paths of error will speedily present to our visions. The consequences are frightful; let us pursue them a little further. Let us suppose that we them a little further. Let us suppose that we have five hundred millions of currency now in circulation, worth fifty millions of standard bullion; the issue of an additional five hundred million of such currency will not add a single dollar to its value. The thousand millions will be worth no more than the five hundred millions were before the last issue, to-wit: fifty millions of bullion. The addition has only depreciated the whole currency by one half, and this depreciation will invariably exhibit itself in the rise of the commodities for which it may be exchanged. The Government, therefore, if it spends the additional issue in commodities, cath of John B. Floyd, at Abington.

Investments in gold for the buy its bonds. Investments in gold for the last six months have been the safest and among the best in the Confederate States. They have paid one hundred per cent, per month on the original investment in Treasury notes. Can I say more to expose the boundless folly of our present financial system? The history of the currency of our enemies since the beginning of this war is humiliating to us. Neither had foreign credits; both had powerful and established State governments to hack them. We were united its; both had powerful and established State governments to back them. We were united in favor of the war; they were divided. They have kept twice the men in the field that we have, upon half the money, and paid their soldiers better than we have. Their Treasury notes sell at a discount of less than thirty per cent.; ours at more than one thousand! The reason is solely that their government has better understood and more firmly adhered to the true principles of currency than ours. In all else we had the advantage. I have endeavored to point out the main difficulty in our financial policy, and have, to the best of my judgment, traced it to its true source—excess in currency—not national debility.

I have labored to illustrate the disestrous effect on prices of this excess; and here I wish to be clearly understood. I do not say that currency is the sole element in the price of corn, or of any other commodity, but I do affirm that it is one of its main elements, always present, ever active, and, other things being equal, "that the price of commodities must everywhere rise or fall in proportion to the increase or diminution of the money which circulates them." Suppose I am mistaken in circulates them." Suppose I am mistaken in the application of this principle to our present sircumstances; uppose, as many able and ex-tellent men do firmly hold, that from our p. caller effective and reproduct the couliar effective standard of value or the true test of the decreciation of our currency. What then? I will not deny the truth, but I will waive it, in deference to honest patriots seeking the same end—the public good—but I will not waive the terrible truth, as plain as the middle and that the the public good ways standard. I will not waive the terrible truth, as plain as the midday sur, that by any and every standard which any intelligent man can apply, and at a velocity rapid and doily increasing, our currency is depreciating, dying, and, without our most vigerous efforts, must soon passaway. This depreciation of the currency, therefore, whatever may be its regulation, or by whatsoever standard you may test its amount, is our monster evil.

The mischief is still within our power, and we may still remedy it, if we have the wis-we may still remedy it, if we have the wis-dom, firmness and courage which the crisis demands. It involves our independence. We nust do it; we have no alternative which a freeman should consider; any settlement with those miserable miscreants on our northern border, short of eternal-separation and in dependence, would be the consummation of all evils which even the power of God could inflict on us in this world. Therefore, what-ever may be the cost in wealth of a return to principle is subject to many grave objectious. This mode of tax tion should never be resort-all of the banks within the Confederate States had suspended crish payments, and their notes were depreciated; therefore, the first treasury note which was put into circulation added its nominal value to this excess. Each succeeding issue enlarged it, and increased the depreciation of the whole mass. This depreciation of the whole mass. This depreciation bonds for which they are pledged.

By making the provision for our bonds ample at the beginning, so that no fature legislation shall be necessify to preserve the public faith, we give the public creditor the best possible security for his money which we are able to effer. The overthrow of government will be his only danger: that cannot be provided against. We greatly lessen the chances of repudiation, because in this case it provided against. We greatly lessen the chances of repudiation, because in this case it would require the direct concurrence of the Executive and both branches of Congress to defeat the security; whereas, in the case of boads charged on the general revenue, it may be defeated by the Executive or either branch of Congress—even the non-action of either would be fatal to it. What are called the cot-ton-loan bonds, though they have but one of these principles engrafted upon them, to-wit: the payment of interest in each, sell for a large premium. The fifteen million loan was based precisely on these principles, and although the Government has violated its pledge to pay these bonds in coin, and they suffer der the great disadvantage of being cured by an export duty on cotton, which made nearly unavailable for the present by the blockade, their market value is nearly double that of all other eight per cent. bonds. These facts demonstrate the soundness of the theory which I advocate. If the cotton bonds had been secured by a land tax, upon the terms I have briefly sketched, adequate to meet them, their coupons would instantly meet them, their coupons would instantly very nearly approximate to gold and silver in value, and the premium upon them, payable in our currency, would be large.

We must act, and that quickly. The public interest and public safety will no longer allow delay. Our present system is utterly insupportable. It is upsetting the very joundinsupportable. It is upsetting the very found-ations of private rights, weakening public confidence in our cause at home and abroad, sowing dangerous discontents among the peo-ple, which are daily deepening and widening. Patriotism demands that all good men should unite to correct these evils.

The Providence Journal says : We are permitted to make the following interesting extract from a private letter of Cap-tain A. W. Colwell, of Pawtucket, Third Rhode Island heavy artillery. Under date of August 19 the Captain says: "I went to my battery at four o'clock this morning, and as soon as it was light I began fring at lattene practice on Sumter, Gregg.

of the commodities for which it may be exchanged. The Government, therefore, if it spends the additional issue in commodities, loses first the whole amount of depreciation existing at the beginning of the issue; also all the additional depreciation produced by its daily expenditure, and the noteholders lose one-half the value of their notes. It will, therefore, follow, that if the market price of wheat is eight dollars per bushel under the issue of five hundred millions of treasury notes, it will be sixteen dollars per bushel under the issue of a thousand millions, and the sixteen dollars will be worth no more than eight dollars, and will exchange for no more of other commodities.

Important Arrests-The Parties Implicated in the Bank Robbery at Carrollton-Guard Killed.

On Saturday morning, J. K. Edwards, the Chief of Detectives, brought to our city Lewis Ellis and John Morgan, two notorious guerrillas, who have for some time been recruiting in our State for the Southern army. The facts leading to the arrest are as follows: It was learned that a party of rebels were encamped omewhere in Trimble county, and a portion of our troops were sent after them, and succeeded in capturing the two above named, and two whose names we did not learn.

The two whose names are given were brought to this city on the mailboat. The other two, not making Carrollton in time to be placed on the boat, were placed under guard at that place. Mr. Crawford, the cashier of the bank, arrived in our city Sunday morning, and from him it is understood that about $8,000 of the money stelen from the bank has been recovered on the road leading from Carrollion. About six miles from that place was found the boxes that contained the gold stolen from the bank. The boxes had been broken open and the money carried off. It is generally supposed that at this point a divison was made, and that the party divided into small squads, taking different directions. Several parties are suspected as being connected in this robbery, and other arrests will shortly be made.

Died at the residence of his parents, George Willies, infant con of Jacob and Lizzle Ann Kupp, aged 3 years, il months and 20 days. Fond father, devoted mother, no language can express your neart's deep agony, and as the fact bursts on my mind that now.

Closed is the mouth where dimples Used to smile, Whence child-like thoughts Were uttered without guile,

I can but think that death is no respector of person but often seeks a young and shining mark. Snall I more hear him isp in silvery tones, "Up-a-dee, up dee?" My heart sinks within me. O that I possessed poet's mind, that I might clear the window of my so and reveal the feelings of a sympathetic heart. I couly bid you

All experience proves that it is both asier and cheaper to prevent fever and ague than to cure it. Let any one who doubts this give Dr. Bull's Cedron Bitters a fair test, and they will doubt no longer. In preventing this disease, and in securing the patient against a relapse after the chills have been broken, it stands without a rival. It has been thorough ly tested in this respect by our soldiers in camp, and we learn that Dr. Bull is in daily and hourly receipt of letters detailing its won derful effects. sel d&nlw WASHINGTON, August 31. The Navy Department has received informa ion of the capture of the brig Atlantic, by the United States steamer Princess Royal, off the United States steamer Princess Royal, off the Rio Grande, Mexico. From the statement of Acting Master Chas. E. Late, in command of the gunboat Antonio, it appears that the Atlantic had cotton on board direct from the Trxas shore, and the captain of the brig told him he would swear to the fact, and if a private interview could be granted it would be to the advantage of the Government. The captain's singular proceedings were, he says, in consequence of a misundering between him and the parties chartering the vessel: and he In consequence of a misundering between him and the parties chartering the vessel; and he says he was taken into Key West in this same Atlantic, while bound for Texas, by a United Stotes vessel, as a prize, and laid there thirty-six days, but was smart enough to fool the authorities, notwithstanding he had contraband of war on board. He escaped from them and then sued the United States Government and obtained judgment for ten thousand doland obtained judgment for ten thousand dol-lars. He then went off and delivered his cargo which went into Brownsville, Texas, via Matamoras. The captain further said, "If you don't look out I will fool you again. lost ten thousand dollars by the destruction of machiney, which was not insured. They were building five turrets for monitors now being constructed at Charlestown and Porismouth. It is not known how much they were damaged, and it will not be ascertained for some time. The destruction of machinery will cause a delay in finishing the turrets, and will throw temporarily out of employment a large number of mechanics. The turrets are valued at forty thousand dollars each. The total loss is estimated at three hundred thou-sand dollars. About half of it is insured.

[For the Louisville Democrat.] Messrs. Editors: On my return, after rief absence from the city, I find Mr. Wheat, who signs himself Secretary and Treasurer of the Louisville "Board of Trade," comes forth armed cap-a-pie to defend his gallant friend,

'Any other Man." In a most self-sacrificing spirit, he proposes to run a tilt at and break a lance with "Progress." I am happy to meet so valiant a knight, and assure him he shall be treated with the high consideration and gentlemanly courtesy his character and position entitle him to.

Mr. Wheat says: "Had 'Progress' propounded his questions to almost any loyal man in the city, he would have received a satisfactory to my questions, it is but a fair inference to draw from Mr. Wheat's remarks that those not connected with it are disloyal. This is not only a very serious charge to bring against the business community of Louisville, but come with double force from the Secretary of the "Board," he being the acknowledged organ.

Now, Messrs. Editors, I assert with a full knowledge of the truth whereof I write, that but a very small number of those whose business and influence is not only required, but is indispensibly necessary to build up and support a "Board of Trade" in this city, are not, neither are they ever likely to be, connected with the present organization, unless a more efficient, wise, and just policy is inaugurated But we are told they are disloyal. Not so, for hey are recognized and respected by the civil nd military agents of the Government as good and loyal citizans. Then why are they prescribed—why discarded from business circles by any portion of their fellows? Is it because they refuse to make their loyalty an article of traffic—to "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning?" Or do they feel indignant at the intolerant Or do they feel indignant at the intolerant spirit made so patent at the "Council Cham-ber" abortion? At its advent they determined to leave it in care of its acconcheurs.

Mr. Wheat further asks if I do not think the "test oath extra judicial and inexpedient?"
I do most assuredly think the proceedings at the Council Chamber meeting very extraor-dinary, and "extra judicial." Those who un-dertook to engineer this thing through submitted a proposition and required a written pledge from those present, making the "test oath" a sine qua non of membership. Now, be it remembered, this was before any organi-

(Webster's definition), it was certainly out of the usual order of business.

It was "inexpedient," having defeated the object it was designed to promote. But I am told I may "become a member greatly to my cwa advantage." Excuse me, Mr. Secretary; my aspirations do not run so high. To meet once a month is entirely too often; and then, to think of the annoyance after one has retired to his room for the evening, exchanged coat and boots for gown and slippers, seated in a comfortable arm-chair, with a "long nine" in his mouth and the "Evening News" in his hand, to hear his wife say, "My dear, this is the evening the Board of Trade meets." Oh, shocking! but the moon shines so bright I travel.

travel. We are further informed by Mr. Secretary Wheat that the "Board is not such an institu-tion as it should be." Very true. Why is it not? But he adds: "'Tis better to start at a gait hat can be kept up and improved upon.

Very thoughtful; better be "slow and sure."
But you promise to "undertake more than you have attempted." Then you must improve your "gait" to accomplish it. But all your efforts will prove futile so long as you remain upon your present base.
You never can succeed in establishing a permanent Board of Trade in the city of Louisville without a union of her merchants, man-

At a meeting of the to bacco manufacturers of this city, held Wednesday morning at the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse, Mr. Burge was called to the chair and D. M. Anderson appointed secretary.

The chair explained the object of the meeting, namely: To consider the importance and practicability of calling a convention of the tobacco manufacturers of the West, in order

country
The chair remarked that it would be well to have the co-operation of the Northern manufacturers, as he was aware of the interest they had in such a movement.

NEW YORK, August 31. Richmond papers of the 29th contain the following:
Six hundred cavalry of Yankees advanced upon the Peninsula on Thursday as far as New Kent Courthouse, and a demonstration came late in the day to the vicinity of Bottom's Bridge, over the Chickahominy, fifteen miles below Richmond, at this point. They ex-changed a few shots with our pickets, and it is said that several of each side were killed and wounded. We do not think that much

The fire in East Boston, which broke out at the head of Lombard wharf about noon to-day, has been got under. Carlton's wharf, and Brown & Lowell's wharf were nearly swept of their bulldings, which were mainly occupied by mechanics, and the tenants were able to save but little from the flames. The Atlantic Works, were built of both wood and brick, and covered a large space.

They were owned by Robert C. Hoper, whose loss is estimated at from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars. The Atlantic works lost ten thousand dollars by the destructions.

THIS INSTITUTION, LOCATED TWELVE MILES from Louisville, on the Frankfort Railroad, near Hobbs' Depot, will open its third annual session on the 3d day of September, 1883. Being entirely in the country, it is free from all the excitements of large towns and ci ies. Such a thing as a body of soldiers has never been seen on the premises, with a single exception, and then only for a v-ry few moments. A full corps of instruct-rs in both the solid and ornamental branches is provided. A handsome chapel and recitation rooms sixty feet in length are in course of construction, on a lot adjoining the one on which the present buildings stand. This will enable the proprietor to accommodate about twenty more be arding pupils than last year.
For circulars or further particulars, address the unders gned, Principat, at Louisville.

The Loans of the Government, maturing in 1881, are now selling at six per cent, premium. These would advance to live 15 per cent, premium. If the Secretary of the Treasury should discontinue the sales of the 5-20's themselves would soon command a handsome premium, should the demand for Government Loans, as the basis for banking or for investment, be at all active. It is possible that the Secretary of the Treasury may receive Subscriptions to the 5-20 Loan for a longer period—should there by any delay in the preparation of the not s for the supplying of the Treasury with funds, or should he, in view of the manifest benefits to the country from the present popular mode of distributing tae Loans of the Nation among the PROPLE—or to encourage the formation of the New Banks—decled to be wise and judicious to further extend the time of Subscriptions to the 5-20's at par. His views and intentions on the subject, of course, are unknown; therefore, be safest find wi est course is to subscribe at once, whilst a six per cent Bond, with the interest and principal payable in GOLD, can be had at par.

It will afford me pleasure to furnish full information in regard to the formation of the National Banks, and the necessary steps to be taken.
